The Lack of Unity

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-12, is drawn to the method of producing an aminophenol compound represented by the following compound formula (I) containing R¹ and R² which can be a heterocyclic group respectively or combine R¹ and R² together, such as piperidine, piperazine, as disclosed below:

Group II, claims 1-12, is drawn to the method of producing an aminophenol compound represented by the following compound formula (I) as disclosed below:

(wherein each of R^1 and R^2 , which may be the same or different, is a hydrogen atom, a substituted or unsubstituted lower alkyl group, a substituted or unsubstituted aryl group or a substituted or

- A. The inventions listed as Groups do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

the international application shall relate to one invention only or to a group of inventions so linked as to form a single general inventive concept (" requirement of unity of invention ").

PCT Rule 13.2 states " Where a group of inventions is claimed in one and the same international application, the requirement of unity of invention referred to in Rule 13.1 shall be fulfilled only when there is a technical relationship among those inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding special technical features. The expression " special technical features" shall mean those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art.

In the instant case, the invention of Group I is directed to the method of producing an aminophenol compound represented by the following compound formula

(I) containing R1 and R2 which can be a heterocyclic group respectively or combine R1 and R2 together , such as piperidine , piperazine, whereas the invention II is related to the method of producing an aminophenol compound represented by the following compound formula (I) compound formula (I) containing R1 and R2 which can be a hydrogen , alkyl group or aryl group respectively. They have different modes of operation , different functions or different effects because each of their reactants has a completely different chemical structure with respect to the core structure. For example, the reactant containing a hetero group has been known to have a different reactivity or a different effect in comparison with the one with the non-hetero groups. Therefore, Group I and Group II are unrelated to each other. In addition, each invention has a different use and effect due to unrelated substituents attached to the core of the compounds. Therefore, there is no single general inventive concept and no unity of invention for the method or the process as defined in 37 CFR 1.475.

37 CFR 1.475 states that a national stage application containing claims to different categories of invention will be considered to have unity of invention if the claims are drawn only to one of the following combination of categories:

- a. A product and a process specially adapted for the manufacture of said product;
- or
- b. A product and a process of use of said product; or
- c. A product, a process specially adapted for the manufacture of the said product, and a use of the said product; or

Art Unit: 1625

- d. A process and an apparatus or means specially designed for carrying out the said process; or
- e. A product, a process specially adapted for the manufacture of the said product, and an apparatus or means specially designed for carrying out the said process.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

B. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(I).
